Artists with Autism

Michael Vidal - Michael (31) started drawing at the age of two and he was diagnosed with autism at age three. His art includes charcoal sketch, oil, and acrylics. His art is often symbolic of his thoughts, dreams and feelings. He has a degree in graphic design from Broward College and currently works freelance creating logos and magazine artwork.

Keith Rebarber - Keith (32) expresses his thrill-seeking life and love of music through art. His flowing abstracts are often the street maps of cities and theme parks he has visited or soon to visit.

Brandon Drucker - Brandon (26) creates art of familiar places, and those not yet discovered. His imagination includes places, creatures and languages captured in vivid colors on canvas. As a professional artist since he was 18, he writes and illustrates his own graphic novels and life story, 'Diary of an Autistic Kid.'

Elina Silva - Elina is a soulful acrylic/mixed media artist. Her artworks represent her connection to the earth's vibrations and her inner energies as she perceives the energy surrounding her.

Sean Brushingham - Sean (20) exhibited an innate talent for drawing and art since the age of 4. He brings a fresh and unique perspective that is not encumbered by traditional constraints.

Margie Lee Rodriguez - Margie Lee (51) is a native of Puerto Rico. Her acrylic artworks include abstract, geometric design, original stencil and folk art. She has been drawing since a small child and enjoys talking with people about her art. She also enjoys golf and creating jewelry.

Aaron Poliwoda - My name is Aaron Poliwoda. I draw comic books about autism and other subjects. My latest book is a true story about an autistic man who was bullied online by his ex-wife.
